OBSERVATORY

A Few Suggestions to Fresh.

Don't speak to upperclassmen unless they first speak to you.

Don't hang around on the campus. Better stick to your den, and study. It'll make a good impression on the professors.

Don't ever walk around without a half dozen of books under your arm. You must have the appearance of a student.

Don't act smart. No one ever gave a freshman credit for brains. Those are acquired as you climb the ladder of learning.

Don't fail to tip your hat when you meet an upperclassman.

Don't forget that freshmen are allowed only one date a month.

Don't imitate the upperclassmen by hanging around the halls, that's their privilege.

Don't walk on the grass. Two shades of green wouldn't be artistic.

Don't fail to stand at attention when talking to upperclassmen.

Don't let the greenness of the caps intensify your present state of mind.

Don't get stiff necks looking at the buildings.

Don't give up the ship altho the goal seems unattainable.

Don't eat peas with a knife.
